

Synchrono® Presents Modern Demand-Driven Manufacturing: Myths, Strategies and Realities for Enabling Smart Manufacturing at IndustryWeek Expo

Session to address how modern approaches to demand-driven manufacturing are enabling the Internet of Things, Smart Manufacturing and end-to-end supply chain visibility

ST. PAUL, Minn. – April 26, 2017 – Synchrono®, a leader in modern demand-driven manufacturing software and sponsor of the Manufacturing Technology Strategies track at the IndustryWeek Manufacturing & Technology Conference & Expo, will lead a special session at this year's conference:

Modern Demand-Driven Manufacturing: Myths, Strategies and Realities for Enabling Smart Manufacturing

Date/Time: Tuesday, May 9 at 9:00 AM

Presenter: John Maher, Synchrono Vice President of Product Strategy

Modern Demand-Driven Manufacturing: Myths, Strategies, and Realities for Enabling Smart Manufacturing will dispel myths and outline modern demand-driven strategies – and the technologies manufacturers like Orbital ATK, Dynisco, Club Car, Georgia Ironworks and hundreds more have adopted to be more responsive to their customer's needs. Real-world case studies from these smart manufacturers will be used to tell the story of manufacturing digitization, synchronization and visualization - and the transformative power of real-time information access and decision-making.

With a focus on Lean manufacturing and continuous improvement, the IndustryWeek conference is dedicated to helping manufacturers improve their operations. "Manufacturing leaders attend this event to learn about innovations in technology and applications of Lean thinking from peers and practitioners who have put them into play, notes Pam Bednar, Synchrono Vice President of Marketing. "We hold this event in high regard for its quality learning and networking opportunities; that's why we keep coming back as both attendees and sponsors." The event features plant tours, keynote presentations, numerous breakout sessions, networking events and an exhibit hall; all aimed at providing manufacturing professionals with ideas they can take back to their facilities and implement to improve their operations.
